PROPOSALS
FOR PUBLISHING AN
HISTORY OF THE LIFE
OF THE ILLUSTRIOUS
GEORGE WASHINGTON,
Commander in Chief of the American Armies during the revolutionary war with Great Britain, firſt Preſident of the United States, and ſince, Lieutenant General of the Army.
By JOSEPH SCOTT,
Author of the Modern Geographical Dictionary, in four volumes octavo.
OF the various methods which different writers purſue in order to convey uſeful knowledge to mankind, Biography ſtands confeſſedly among the firſt. There is none more intereſting—none more inſtructive and entertaining. The hiſtories of diſtinguiſhed heroes, who have, by their exalted virtues, and noble and ſplendid actions, been the principal means of redeeming their reſpective countries from the corroding hand of tyranny, have in all ages been conſidered the moſt entertaining, inſtructive, and important to mankind. They afford example; and example is more powerful than precept. It ſtrengthens, by a plain and eaſy mode of analogical reaſoning, the principles of the timid, determines and fixes thoſe that are wavering, and ultimately lays the baſis for that harmony and coincidence of ſentiment among the citizens; from which only, a nation can hope to derive rank, conſequence and ſtability.
Impreſſed with lively ſentiments of the eminent virtues of that diſtinguiſhed HERO and PATRIOT, the hiſtory of whoſe life I have undertaken to write; it was not till after much reflection I reſolved on iſſuing theſe propoſals.—The following conſiderations induced me to this; Firſt, having obtained in the courſe of an extenſive correſpondence, with many gentlemen of talents and information, a large ſtock of original materials concerning the life of this Illuſtrious Citizen; to give form and body to theſe, in the manner of hiſtory, will preſerve many important things that otherwiſe would moſt probably be loſt. Secondly, as many of the moſt intereſting tranſactions of his life, ſince he reſigned his commiſſion as Commander in chief of our revolutionary armies, are very imperfectly recorded, and little underſtood; yet the greater part of them being freſh in the memories of many, this muſt be the fitteſt time to embody them; before a ſucceſſion of objects, which every day brings forth, wears off the minuter circumſtances. There are many of theſe circumſtances important and intereſting; as it is univerſally acknowledged, that great actions, like immenſe rivers, flow from ſmall beginnings.

CONDITIONS.
I. The Life of General Waſhington will contain nearly 400 pages octavo, printed on fine paper, and in a ſtyle of elegance equal to any work that has appeared from the Philadelphia preſs. It will be embelliſhed with a ſtriking likeneſs of the General, executed by one of the firſt artiſts.
II. Subſcribers' names will be annexed, as patrons.
III. Each ſubſcriber is to pay two dollars, one half on ſubſcribing, the remainder on the delivery of the work.
☞ Subſcriptions in this city are received at No. 297 Arch street, next door to the north weſt corner of Eighth ſtreet.

Foreign Intelligence.

FROM THE LONDON GAZETTE.

Downing Street, October 29, 1799.

A diſpatch, of which the following is a copy, has been received from Lieutenant-Colonel Henry Clinton, by the right Hon. Lord Greenville, his Majeſty's principal Secretary of State for the Foreign Department.

Caire, October 9, 1799.

MY LORD,

When I ſent your Lordſhip my laſt diſpatch on the 2d inſt. From Glaris, the report from General Reſenberg, whoſe diviſion compoſed that rear guard, had not reached head-quarters. I have now the honour to inform your Lordſhip that the enemy, having received a conſiderable reinforcement from Zug, renewed on the 1ſt inſt. their attack near the village of Mutten, where in conſequence of the fatigue the troops had undergone the preceding day, they had been obliged to halt. A ſtrong collumn of the enemy advanced by the road in the center of the valley, while two others, ſkirting the foot of the mountains on each ſide, endeavered to get in the rear of the Ruſſians. —The diviſion of General Roſenberg conſiſted of eight weak battalions and two regimeuts of Coſſacks. Diſcovering the intention of the enemy he left five battalions as a reſerve, and with three, (the breadth of the valley not admitting of a greater front) ſupported by the Coſſacks, he attacked the center of the enemy; their heavy guns for a moment gave them an advantage; but nothing could withſtand the ſteadineſs of the Ruſſian attack. In the hurry of their retreat an ammunition waggon was overſet, which choaked the only road by which the cannon could move; three pieces where immediately taken poſſeſſion of by the Ruſſians. The flank columns, ſeeing their center pierced fled. General Roſenberg profited of the confuſion of the enemy and purſued them beyond Schwith. In killed and wounded they loſt above 500 men and 13 officers, and 1020 men were taken priſoners. The Ruſſians had in this affair about 300 men killed and wounded. It was the 4th in the evening before the ſick and wounded could be tranſported to Glaris; the road not admitting of the paſſage of artillery, the guns were deſtroyed; on the 5th the army marched by the valley of Semſt to Elm; the difficulty of the roads made it impoſſible to remove the wounded. The enemy followed the rear guard, and gained ſome trifling advantages over it during the firſt three or four miles of the march; upon a well-timed attack, however, of the Ruſſians, they deſiſted from any farther attempt. On the 6th the army paſſed the Dinix Mountain, which the ſnow that had fallen during the laſt week had rendered dangerous, and ſeveral mules and baggage horſes were loſt on the march. The army is now aſſembled at this place, and after two days of repoſe it with the army of General Korſakoff.

Have the honor to be, &c.

H. CLINTON.

LONDON, October 10.

NAPPER TANDY, &c.

The following are the particulars reſpecting the embarkation and arrival of Napper Tandy and his three fellow priſoners, Col Blackwell, capt. Montmonea, alias Morris, and George Peters: On the 1ſt inſt. they were conveyed on board the Zenophon frigate at Hamburgh, and immediately ſet ſail for Cuxhaveven, at which place they were detained by contrary winds till the 9th, when they put to ſea; but the weather continuing extremely bad, the veſſel was not able to make the Nore till Monday morning laſt; notice of which being ſoon after received at the admiralty by the Telegraph, Mr. Roſe, the meſſenger, accompanied by Edwards, Dowſett and Perry, (Bow ſtreet officers) and other aſſiſtants, were ſent off expreſs, in two poſt coaches, and four, to Sheerneſs, where they arrived at four o'clock on Tueſday morning, and about ſeven went off in the port admiral's yacht, attended by a ſix oared barge for the Nore, and got on board the Zenophon at eight, when the priſoners were conſigned to their charge.

A party of capt. Burgeſs's Sheppy yeomanry attended at the water ſide to eſcort them to eſcort them to Sittingbourne.—Here they were delivered to a party of Sir Edward Knatchbull's yeomanry, who eſcorted them to Rocheſter, where they were received by Lord Darnley's troop of Cobham yeomanry cavalry, who conducted them into town; and yeſterday, at a quarter before one, they paſſed over Blackfriar's bridge, proceeded up Ludgate Hill and the Old Bailey, and between one and two o'clock they arrived at Newgate and were transferred to the cuſtody of Mr. Kirby the keeper, who had prepared two very commodious rooms for their reception, in the centre of the priſon, over the chapel. The priſoners conducted themſelves with the greateſt propriety throughout the whole of their journey to London, and alſo on board the Xenophon, where it was thought prudent to confine them in ſeparate births, with a ſentinel placed at the door of each; but they were, however ſupplied with every comfort that the ſhip could afford. Napper Tandy, either from drinking a quantity of Brandy, or taking ſome medicine juſt before they ſailed, ſlept from Hamburgh to Cuxhaven, and was for ſome time very ſick and ill.—Had Bnonaparie and his ſtaff been ſent here by Sir Sidney Smith, they could not have excited more curioſity. A vaſt concou ſe of people was aſſembled at the landing place who attended the priſoners and their eſcort to the garriſon gates, where a new concourſe was aſſe bled, and ſo from ſtage to ſtage to the end of the journey, every body, old and young, male and female, was anxious to get a peep at this wonderful man, now become, from the happy perſeverance of miniſters, a new bone of contention among the powers of Europe.

Every thing relating to perſonages of ſuch high importance muſt be intereſting to the public; and therefore we ſubjoin the following deſcription:

Napper Tandy is a large big-boned muſcular man, but much broken and emaciated. His hair is quite white from age, cut cloſe behind into his neck, and he appears much enervated. This is indeed very natural, if it be conſidered that he is near ſeventy years of age, and has juſt ſuffered a long and rigorous confinement, his mind the conſtant prey of the moſt painful ſuſpenſe. He wore a large friar's, a long ſilk black grey coat, and military boots, which had a very outre effect.

Blackwell and Morris ſeem to be about five and thirty. They are two tall handſome looking men, wore military dreſſes, and have a very ſoldier-like appearance. The former is a man of a very interpriſing genius, about the middle ſize, apparently not more than four or five and twenty, and has much the look of a foreigner.

Colonel Blackwell had the command of the French troops that landed in the North of Ireland; the commiſſions that he and Montmonea bear are in the French army. Napper Tandy was alſo in that expedition. They are all natives of Irelaud, to which country, it is ſaid, they will be tranſmitted for trial, after undergoing a previous examination here before the privy council.

Copy of a declaration made by his Imperial Majeſty the Emperor of all the Ruſſias, to the Members of the Germanic Empire.

"His Imperial Majeſty the Emperor of all the Ruſſias, ever animated with zeal for the cauſe of ſovereigns, and wiſhing to put a ſtop to the ravages and diſorders which have been ſpread by the impious Government under which France groans, to the remoteſt countries being fully determined to diſpatch his ſea and land forces for the ſupport of the ſufferers, and to reſtore Royalty in France without, however, admitting any partition of that country; to re-eſtabliſh the ancient forms of Goverbment in the United Netherlands, and in the Swiſs Cantons; to maintain the integrity of the German Empire; and to look for his reward in the happineſs and tranquility of Europe: Providence has bleſſed his arms, and hitherto the Ruſſian troops have triumphed over the enemies of thrones, religion and ſocial order.

"His Majeſty the Emperor of all the Ruſſias having thus declared his views, and the motives by which he is guided, addreſſes this declaration to all the members of the German Empire, inviting them to unite forces with his to poſtrate, to found on its ruins permanent tranquility for themſelves and their poſterity.

"Should his Imperial Majeſty of all the Ruſſias perceive that they ſupport his views, and rally around him, he will, inſtead of relaxing his zeal, redouble his exertion, and not ſheath his ſword before he has ſeen the downfall of the Monſter which threatens to cruſh all legal authorities. But, ſhould he be left to himſelf, he will be forced to recall his forces to his ſtates, and to give up a cauſe ſo badly ſupported by thoſe who ought to have the greateſt ſhare in its triumph.

"Gatschina, Sep. 15 (old ſtyle) 1799.

Lieut. Col. Montague has been tried by a Court Martial, and diſplaced from the firſt Wiltſhire regt. for ſlandering the characters of captains Awdry and Haulton, and by endeavoring to form a party in the regiment.

Capt John Ayſcough on the firſt of Nov. was tried by a naval court martial, on board the ſhip Expedition in Sheerneſs, for the loſs of the Blanche, and was honorable acquitted. She was ran on ſhore, it appears, by the careleſſneſs of the pilot.

PLYMOUTH, November 7.

This morning arrived a large fleet of tranſports from the Helder, with upwards of 7000 Ruſſian troops on board, who are to be landed at Guernſey.

Arrived in the South the Fower cutter, of 14 guns, lieutenant Darby, from a cruiſe off Breſt. Five ſail of the line that left Breſt, and anchored in Cameron Bay, were ſeen to return to Breſt before the Fower left it: ſhe alſo ſaw a fleet of merchant veſſels, under convoy of two brigs and a lugger, enter that harbonr.

BREGENZ, October 16.

The French pretend to have forced Suwarrow to quit Mount St. Gothard and Glams; but ſince the loſs of Zurich. it was contrary to his plan to maintain thoſe poſitions any longer. Generals Jellachich, Petrarſch, Auffenburg, and Linken, will defend ihe Griſon country.

BUUSSELS, October 16.

The Engliſh officer who had been ſent with a flag of truce and a diſpatch to the commandant ol Helvoetſluys from the admiral, cruiſing at the mouth of the Menſe, has been re conducted on board the cutter that brought him, with the anſwer of the Batavian officer. As the garriſon of Helvoetſluys is not very numerous, and an attack was feared from the enemy, two companies of the German regiment of Saxe Gotha, which were at Rotterdam, have ſet out to reinforce it. There are at preſent before Helvoetſluys only one Engliſh cutter and two Luggers. Four other Engliſh veſſels are cruiſing before the Brill. It appears to be the deſign of the Engliſh to cut off all the trade of the port of Rotterdam.

STUTGARD, October 18.

The greateſt part of Suwarrow's army is arrived at Lindau and Buchoro, where it has joined the corps of General Korſakow, which together amount to 40,000 men.—This army will be reviewed on the 24th by the archduke Charles and Prince Suwarrow near Ravensburg. The Prince informed the Archduke by way of compliment, that he intended to ſerve under his Royal Highneſs. It is, however, ſaid, that during the enſuing winter the Ruſſian army will act on the defenſive; and the Archduke return to the Necker, to drive the French again from Manheim.

SUABIA, October 20.

Even the accounts from Bern allow that Prince Suwarrow, when he entered the ſmaller cantons, was by no means defeated, but on the contrary obtained conſiderable advantages in different engagements, and only changed his plan of operations in conſequence of the battle of the 26th and 27th. Some accounts ſtate, that Maſſena is preparing to advance acroſs the Rhine, while others maintain that Suwarrow will be before hand with him, by advancing into Switzerland.

FRANKFORT, October 22.

During the laſt two days, the commandant of Mentz has not ſuffered the paſſage veſſel to ſail between that fortreſs and our city; no paſſports are granted to travellers, and it is ſuppoſed that there are ſcarcely any troops there. Nine hundred pipes of Rheniſh wine, which had been ordered for the uſe of the garriſon, will be ſold by public auction.

Accounts were received here yeſterday from Darnſtadt and its neighbourhood that a heavy cannonade had been heard. It is ſaid that the French attacked the armed peaſants and the troops of Mentz, but were defeated.

THE LAY PREACHER.

"I returned, and saw under the sun, that the race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, neither yet bread to the wise, nor yet riches to men of understanding, nor yet favor to men of skill, but time and chance happeneth to all men."

HAD my text been the product of some fallen WOLSEY, or the mournful lamentation of a hungry poet, it might be ascribed to disappointed ambition, or unflattered vanity. But it stands on record, as the deliberate sentiment of a mighty prince, in the full fruition of power, wealth and glory, who is registered as the wisest of the sons of men.

Dreary is the picture presented by the royal sage; and its dismal shades are more impressive, as it becomes an object of acute inspection. The man of worth slumbers in deathlike obscurity; while the knave and the fool possess the choicest honors of our species. The wise are concealed from notice and applause by the darkening mantle of poverty; while stupidity feasts upon delicacies and rolls in splendid pomp. The "man of understanding" eats the bread of carefulness, and the "man of skill" is a stranger to the "sweet aspect" of favor, while a coronet oft glitters on the brows of dullness, and a robe of state conceals a carcase of pollution.

It is a reflection of an unpleasant nature, that, in the course of human affairs, "chance" so frequently bestows the palm of victory. It is discouraging to that merit which looks for the "recompence of reward," that the rugged path of virtue and industry does not infallibly lead to the Temple of Fame. A mortifying prospect is presented to talents and integrity, when the profligate fool floats on an unruffled surface, without a single casualty, to the haven of distinction, and when energy itself "riding on the waves of glory," is given to the "mercy of a rude stream that for ever hides it." Who will strive in the race, or furbish his armor for the combat, while the wreath is destined to grace the sons of indolence and imbecility? What shall rouse the wise to exertion, if wisdom meet no higher recompence, than penury and contempt? Why shall "the pensive sage hang o'er the sickly taper," at the mid night hour, if his counsels prove as fruitless and his labors as unavailing, as to "dash with an oar to hasten the cataract, or wave with a fan to give speed to the winds"?

The Preacher delights not to display the dark side of the human picture. His feelings thrill not in unison with those of infatuated Mandeville. But duty enjoins, that he present the picture in its genuine colors. Impudence may occasionally supply the place and obtain the reward of worth; and craft assume the semblance and reap the recompence of virtue. The intemperance of party may give elevation to vice and bestow the "blushing honors" of the state upon abandoned meanness. Modest merit may be "born to blush unseen and waste its sweetness on the desart air." But yet, though "time and chance" thus sport with honor and reward, valor sometimes finds its superiority in the combat, and the fleet outstrip the tardy in the race of glory. The wise gain a pre-eminence, which is felt and acknowledged by the slavish votaries of wealth and grandeur. Genius bursts the cloud that envelopes it, and commands applause coextensive with its radiance.

The invitations to virtue and wisdom are strong, though they receive but a paltry honor from a thankless world. They obtain a respect of brighter lustre, than affluence can command; and enjoy a reward far less transitory, than the fleeting favors of a misguided multitude. There is a "dry morsel" to the wise, whose luxury is never known at the sumptuous tables of the great. There are riches to the man of understanding, "more precious than rubies," and "more to be desired than gold, yea, than much fine gold." Though "folly is set in great dignity," yet "the words of wise men are heard in quiet more than the cry of him that ruleth among fools." There is a reverence reserved for virtue upon earth, and it is the exalted reverence which virtue feels for virtue. There is a crown reserved for genius, which "time and chance" can never bestow as the portion of fools. There is a bliss resulting from the sentiments and practise of virtue, which "time and chance" can never produce in the bosom of vice.

The Lay Preacher of Pennsylvania.

SOUTHERN FEDERALISM.

Mr. Jones (the Georgia Federalist) does not know whether he will disband an army of Twelve Thousand Men, or whether he will not; but wants time to think of it. The train of thought in this gentleman's mind, on this subject, must needs be very interesting.

The beautiful smock-faced Boys which are sent us now-a-days by the ancient dominion, remind one of the grotesque figures in Holbein's Dance of Death.

"Old letchers, gamblers old, yet youthful mummers,
"Blind, bald, and speechless some, and Christless others."

Nicholas, the abolisher of standing armies may justly say with Horace, Non omnis moriar; for he appears like a man half dead already.

The friend of Randall, the Swindler, who got corrupted by going amongst the British, called a Gentleman to order; and by appealing from the Speaker, would have stood recorded for his singular gentility, had he not been outdone by master Shadow. "Give me Shadow: he presents no mark to the enemy."

The Russian ambassador, Count de Worronzow, lately on a visit to Mr. Boulton, of the Soho, London, bespoke the Play at the Birmingham Theatre; and was so highly gratified with the plaudits of the audience and the attention of Magready, the Manager, that the latter, we understand, received from his Excellency the most substantial and unusually liberal proof of his approbation. It was the introduction of the following additional lines in "Rule Britannia," that the Count considered so honorable to the Imperial Personage he with so much dignity represents:

When Britain first, at Heav'ns command
Arose from out the azure main,
This was the Charter, the Charter of the land,
And guardian Angels sung this strain:
Rule Britannia! Britannia rule the waves!
For Britons never shall be slaves.

Italia's fair and fertile plains,
Must happy restoration see,
The brave Suwarrow! Suwarrow breaks their chains!
And bids her sons again be free!
Rule Britannia, &c.

In Europe, two great monarchs join,
To humble France, religion's foe!
Great George?—the Ocean—the Ocean still is thine,
Whilst Paul on land directs the blow.
Rule Britannia, &c

"Let not the left know what the right hand doeth."

It has been mentioned, that among the many charitable donations of Gen. Washington, he has willed twelve hundred pounds towards the support of that portion of the Alexandria academy set apart for the education of poor and orphan children, to which he had, from its establishment, annually paid fifty pounds.

The legacy of General Washington, to his nephew Judge Washington, we are credibly informed is, a history of the American revolution, written by himself!—To those whom the custom of his country imposed it upon him, during his life time, to keep in slavery, their freedom and land to support them!

As much will be said at this time in consequence of the afflicting event of the death of the venerable and ever to be respected General WASHINGTON, it may perhaps be gratifying to many to hear him speak in his own words, on this occasion.

An obliging correspondent has favored us with an extract of a letter of condolence, which this great and good man was pleased to write to one of the Sons of the late Governor Trumbull, on the death of his father, in which he thus expresses himself:

"Under this loss, however great as your pangs may have been at the first shock, you have every thing to console you. A long and well spent life in the service of his country, placed Governor Trumbull among the first of patriots. In the social duties, he yielded to none; and his lamp, from the common course of nature, being nearly extinguished, worn down with age and cares, but retaining his mental faculties in perfection, are blessings which rarely attend advanced life. All these combining, have secured to his memory universal respect here, and no doubt immeasureable happiness hereafter." He adds, "I am sensible that none of these observations can have escaped you; that I can offer nothing which your own reason has not already suggested; upon this occasion, and being of Sterne's opinion," that "before an affliction is digested, consolation comes too soon: and after it is digested, it comes too late; there is but a mark between these two, as fine almost as a hair, for a comforter to take aim at," "I rarely attempt it. Nor shall I add more on this subject to you, as it would only be a renewal of sorrow, by recalling afresh to your remembrance, things which had better be forgotten." [Hartford Courant.

This morning about 2 o'clock, a fire broke out in a dwelling house, in Front street, four doors below Catherine street—The building being brick, and higher than the adjacent houses, its ravages extended no farther than to the distruction of the wood work of the house in which it originated.

Extract of a letter from a Gentleman at St. Jago of Cuba, dated 11th December 1799 to his friend at Philadelphia.

NEW-YORK, January 10.

Yesterday arrived at this port, in distress, the ship Union, Anthony Daniels master, from Hull, bound to Baltimore, after a passage of 112 days, during which he experienced much bad weather, and was obliged to put in here for provisions.

A Gentleman, who arrived last evening by the stage informs us, that yesterday morning, at half past four, a fire broke out at Brunswick (N. J.) in the shop of Mr. Hazard, coach-maker, near the market-house; and notwithstanding the greatest efforts of the inhabitants, six dwelling houses were entirely consumed. Besides several out houses. Among the sufferers are Mr. David Voorhis, (who, it is said, has lost all his property) and the Rev. Mr. Clark. The house of Colonel Neilson was preserved by very great exertion. It was a fortunate circumstance that the weather was perfectly calm, otherwise the whole street would inevitably have been destroyed.

CONGRESS.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

FRIDAY, January 10.

The House, in Committee of the whole, Mr. Morris in the Chair, resumed the consideration of Mr. Nicholas's resolution for reducing the army establishment—when Messrs. Kitchell, Gallatin and Randolph, spoke in favor of it; and Messrs. S. Smith, Harper, H. Lee, and Huger, against it.

About half past five, the call for the question being very loud, it was at length taken, when there appeared in favor of the resolution 38, against it 39.

The Committee then rose, and the Chairman reported their disagreement to the resolution; when the question upon agreeing to the report of the Committee was taken in the House by yeas and nays, as follows:

Affirmative.

Messrs. Alston, Baer, Bartlett, Bayard, Bird, Brace, J. Brown, Champlin, Dana, J. Davenport, F. Davenport, Dennis, Dent, Dickson, Edmond, Evans, A. Foster, D. Foster, Freeman, Glen, Goode, C. Just Published,

A COMPENDIOUS SYSTEM

Of Practical Surveying and dividing of land; briefly comprized under the following heads, viz.

TWENTY THREE Geometrical Definitions, eleven Geometrical Positions, exhibiting to view the properties and dependencies of triangles; followed by problems and examples preparatory to Trigonometry, heights and distances. Then fifteen problems and examples neceſſarily previous to calculating a Survey ſucceeded by ſeven ſurveys, the area of the four firſt is found geometrically, and of the whole number by difference of latitude and departure, ſhewing how to take an inacceſſible boundary, find the bearing and diſtance of the cloſing line without running it, alſo the diſtances to an inacceſſible corner from the two adjacent corners, followed by examples of offſets on to winding ſtreams of water, ſhewing how to aſcertain the area without the trouble of meaſuring the windings with chains and inſtruments—a crooked water courſe ſtraitened, and a quantity of land on each ſide found by theſe offſets.

Ten examples of dividing land, with many ſub-diviſions, leading into the moſt critical circumſtances that can occur in practice; an example of Interſections, and an example ſhewing how the bearings of a field may be truly taken where the needle is attracted, altho' the attraction may vary in quantity and denomination at every ſtation; examples ſhewing the method of meaſuring by the chain only. All the rules are clear and explicit. This work contains the tables of difference of latitude and departure and of logarithms.

Orders ſent to Joſeph and James Cruckſhank, Bookſellers, No. 87, High-ſtreet, Philadelphia, Bonſall and Niles, 173, Market Street, Baltimore, or the Subſcriber in Wilmington (Del.) will be duly attended to.

TO THE PUBLIC.

THE time being fixed on, when the MILITARY LAND (commonly called Knox's) WARRANTS, granted to the United States' army, are to be regiſtered and located,—the ſubſcribers have explored that tract of land on which thoſe warrants are to be laid; with a view, and for the purpoſe of offering their ſervices as locaters.

We take the liberty of ſuggeſting, "that weare at leaſt as well acquainted with the ſituation, quality of the ſoil, &c. of the different townſhips in the aforeſaid tract, as any other perſon:" this will, perhaps, appear more clearly, by obſerving, that WILLIAM C. SCHENK aſſiſted in running the Indian boundary line; at which time he conſiderably traverſed that tract: he alſo aſſiſted in ſurveying and laying it off into townſhips, and at other times ranged over it, to gain information. But to obtain a more complete and accurate knowledge, we have lately ſpent between two and three months, with ſeveral aſſiſtants, in particularly examining the different townſhips and quarter townſhips; by which means we have acquired an accurate knowledge of the whole diſtrict.—We now offer our ſervices to the public, as Locaters, with aſſurances that we will locate every perſons warrants intruſted to us to the beſt advantage, agreeably to their rights of location, which is to be determined according to law. For our ſervices we demand the one equal tenth part, either in lands or warrants, when we locate a full tract, of four thouſand acres or more, for one perſon or firm; the land to be taken in a ſquare, at a corner of the tract; which corner is to be equitably determined before the time of location.—The one equal ſixth part, in caſh or warrants, when we connect and locate any amount leſs than four thouſand acres. We will be in Philadelphia from December next, until after the time of location, to tranſact this buſineſs. Any perſon wiſhing to ſatisfy himſelf farther, will pleaſe to call on us, by letter, (poſtage paid) or otherwiſe; when due attention will be paid, and ſuch vouchers may be ſeen as we have to offer, which we hope will be ſatisfactory.

The Swift-Sure,

A NEW LINE OF STAGES,

NOW RUNNING BETWEEN

PHILADELPHIA & NEW-YORK,

By the ſhort and pleaſant road of Buſtleton, Newtown, Scotch-Plains, Springfield and Newark.

THE excellence of this road, the populouſneſs of the country through which it paſſes, with ſundry other advantages, which render it ſo far preferable to the Old Road through Briſtol, Brunſwick, &c. long ago ſuggeſted the propriety of its becoming the Grand Thorough-Fare from Philadelphia to New York. During the preſent year, a minute ſurvey of it has been taken, and its ſuperiority over the Old Road, both in winter and ſummer, has been clearly aſcertained.—There are good bridges over all the other waters but the Delaware, and here the croſſing is performed with great ſafety and in leſs than half the time required at the Trenton Ferry. The road is ſeveral miles ſhorter than the old road, but this is amongſt the leaſt of its advantages, becauſe daily experience proves to us, that diſpatch as well as comfort in traveling principally depend on the goodneſs of the road and the levelneſs of the country, and, in theſe reſpects, the New Road is, beyond all compariſon, the beſt. It preſents none of thoſe rocky hills, which render the Old Road ſo fatiguing between the Delaware and Newark. The ſoil, too, for the greater part, is ſuch as to produce but little mud in winter, and very little duſt in ſummer, which circumſtance, added to the beauty of the country, and a conſiderable proportion of ſhade, muſt always render traveling in the latter ſeaſon peculiarly agreeable.

The Swift Sure ſtarts from PHILADELPHIA, at 6 o'clock every morning (Sundays excepted) from the GREEN TREE, oppoſite the Univerſalian Church, North Fourth ſtreet. It goes through Frankford to Buſtleton, where it ſtops to Breakfaſt; from Buſtletown it goes through Newtown to Penny-town to dinner; from Penny-town through Hopewell, Millſtone, Bound-brook, Quibbletown and Plainfield to Scotch Plains to lodge. The next morning it ſtops at Springfield to breakfaſt, from whence it goes through Newark and arrives at New-York at noon.

From NEW-YORK it ſtarts at 3 o'clock in the afternoon (from Paulus Hook) and arrives at Philadelphia the next evening. For ſeats at New-York, application may be made to Edward Bardin, Old Coffee houſe, to A. Mathieu, corner of Naſſau and John ſtreets, to B. Many, no. 48, Courtlandt, corner of Greenwich ſtreet, and to Michael Little, at his hotel, no. 42, Broad ſtreet.

Fare for paſſengers, Five Dollars.
Way paſſengers 6 Cents per Mile.

Each paſſenger is allowed to take on 14lbs. of baggage carriage free; but all other baggage, taken on by a paſſenger, will be charged at 4 cents per pound weight.

With reſpect to packages ſent on without paſſengers, the proprietors preſume they have adopted a regulation, which, though unknown to other lines of ſtages, they think muſt meet with general approbation. They pledge themſelves to make good every package on the following conditions. The perſon who delivers the package at the office ſhall ſee it entered in the ſtage-book, for which entry he ſhall pay 6 cents; he will then ſtate the value of the package, and pay (excluſive of the carriage) one per cent. on the value, as inſurance, and for which he will receive a receipt. Thus, for inſtance, if he eſtimates his package at one dollar, he will pay one cent, and if at one hundred dollars, he will pay one dollar inſurance, and in like proportion for packages of any other value.

Very few perſons it is preſumed, will diſlike this regulation; it will however, be optionable with every one to avail himſelf of this ſecurity or not. But the proprietors think it right to ſtate very explicitly, that they will be reſponſible for the ſafe delivery of no package, which is not regularly entered, and for which an inſurance receipt cannot be produced.

In the diſtribution of the route, the greateſt care has bren taken to fix on ſuch places and taverns as always afford a good accommodation and entertainment for the paſſengers at the moſt reaſonable rates. The ſtages are well equipped furniſhed with fleet and ſteady horſes, and committed to the care of intelligent ſober and obliging drivers. The proprietors themſelves live at the different towns and villages where the ſtages will ſtop, ſo that the conduct of the perſons they employ is continually an object of their attention.—They take care alſo to ſee that the paſſengers are well provided for and politely treated at the taverns, and that no ſort of chicanery or inſolence is practiſed upon them; in ſhort, they have ſpared neither pains nor expence to render the SWIFT-SURE the very beſt line of ſtages in America.

The line has now run nearly a month, during which time a great number of gentlemen have gone through, both from Philadelphia and New-York. Every paſſenger has found the road to ſurpaſs very far all that has been ſaid of its excellence; and the Proprietors of the Swift Sure are extremely happy to hear the behaviou of their drivers, and the treatment at Taverns ſpoken of with the higheſt ſatisfaction.
